INDEX TO VOLUME XXXVI.

Advocate, Lord, of Scotland, his remark that Scotland had never evinced a spirit of freedom, 662

Aird, Thomas, a churchyard eclogue by him, 615

Aladdin, a dramatic poem, by Ochlenschlaeger, reviewed, 620

Althorpe, Lord, not indispensable to House of Commons, 253

Austrian Government of Italy; review of Count Ferdinand dal Pozzo's work, 530—Austria had established schools for popular instruction before Prussia, 534

Autocratie de la Presse, reviewed, 373—Extracts relative to the means of resisting the evils of a democratic press, 385

Banking in Scotland, 665

Bankruptcy law in Scotland, 666

Barricades, results of the triumph of, 209—Extracts from M. Sarran's work, 213—Greater freedom of the press in an aristocratic than a democratic society, 215—Excessive division of landed property in France, 217

Billings, Baron, his letter to M. Jules Janin, 807

Blackwood, death of William, 571

Bonaparte, comparison betwixt him and Washington, by M. Chateaubriand, 809

Boyton, Mr, his speech, 764—His description of the conduct of the Irish agitators in 1831, 764

Bride of Lochleven, a poem, by Delta, 767

Brittany, Chateaubriand's description of a spring in, 704

Brougham, Lord, allusion to him in Noctes Ambrosianæ, 851

Brown, James Hamilton, his narrative of a visit to the seat of war in Greece, 392

Bryan Jones, 523

Bull, fragments from the history of John, Chap. VIII. How Buckram bamboozled the Schoolmaster, and how the devil got among the tailors, 289—Chap. IX. How Manley threw up his place, &c. 292—Chap. X. How Allsop and Buckram decoyed Gray out of the house, &c. 296

Burke, Edmund, Part XII., 228—His Letters on a Regicide Peace, 230—Conclusion, 322—Passages quoted descriptive of the principles of the French Revolution, 325—Occupation in his retirement, 335—His death, 339.

Byron, notices by J. H. Browne of incidents in Greece in which he was concerned, 392

Byron, his opinion of Sir Walter Scott, 394

Cæsars, Chap. V. 67—Conclusion, 173

Campbell, Thomas, his Life of Mrs Siddons reviewed, 149 and 355

Catholic Relief Bill, disappointment in its effects, 747

Chateaubriand, Memoirs of M. de, 19—Extracts from, relative to the changes in progress from monarchy to democracy in Europe, and especially in France, 20, 21—Reflections at sea, &c., 25 et seq.—Memoirs, No. III., 240—Chateaubriand a representative of the ancient French nobility, ib.—Extracts descriptive of school scenes, 241—Comparison betwixt him and Talleyrand, 245—Memoirs, 802—Universal admiration of him in France, ib.—His letter to M. Ed. Merrechet, 803—His description of a spring in Brittany, 804—Account of his ancestors, 805—His sacred drama of Moses, 810.

Churchyard Eclogue, by Thomas Aird, 615

Coercion, Irish Bill, diminishes crime, 757—Renewed without clauses against agitation, 762

Coleridge's Poetical Works, reviewed, 542—Christabel, 563—Ancient Mariner, 566

Colonsay, Christopher on, Fytte Second, 1

Combourg, Chateau de, described by Chateaubriand, 805

Cousin Nicholas, Chap. IX. 97—XI. and XII. 341—XIII. and XIV. 493—XV., XVI., and XVII. 776

Criminal law, as settled by old Scottish Parliament, 664

Croly, Rev. Mr, his pamphlet, 758—Late improvement of the incomes and style of living of the Catholic priesthood, 759—Dues of marriage, baptism, extreme unction, payable to them, ib.

Cruise of the Midge, Chap. V. 29—

Chap. VI. 190—Chap. VII. 300—Chap. VIII. 471—Chap. IX. 642—Chap. X. Where is the Ballahoo, 812

Delta, his Bride of Lochleven, 767

Deux Ans de Regne de Louis Philippe, review, 209

Dryden, 442

Durham, Earl, allusion to him in Noctes Ambrosianæ, 851

Emancipation of West Indian Negroes, 254

English Boy, by Mrs Hemans, 65

Exchequer, English and Irish—Comparative state of Irish income and expenditure, when these consolidated, and afterwards, 751

Fairy Queen, by Spenser, review, Part II. 408—Part III. Legend of the Red-Cross Knight, 681—Part IV. 715

Foreign affairs, 507—Three foundations of all government, 507—Russian power increased by overthrow of Napoleon, 509—Foreign relations of this country altered by the triumph of the Barricades, 511

France, character of the alliance of this country with, 512

Grey, fall of Earl, 246—Owing to "pressure from without," 248—But more immediately to Littleton's communications with O'Connell, ib.—Divisions in the Cabinet, owing to divisions of opinion in the public, 249—Degradation of Parliament from Reform, 251—Lord Althorp not indispensable to House of Commons, 253—A survey of Lord Grey's policy, domestic and foreign, 254—Grey dinner described in Noctes Ambrosianæ, 846

Greece, narrative of a visit to the seat of war in, 392

Hemans, Mrs, English Boy, 65—Her sonnets, devotional and memorial, 799.—No. 1. A Prayer, ib.—2. Prayer, continued, ib.—3. Memorial of a conversation, 800—4. The return to poetry, ib.—5. To Silvio Pellico, ib.—6. To the same released, 801.—7. On reading Coleridge's epitaph written by himself, ib.—8. Hope of future communion with Nature, ib.—9. Dreams of the dead, 802

Hayward's Faust, 268—Remarks on the doctrine of a Ruling Passion, 274—On the supposed necessity of Lord Althorpe's continuance in office, &c., 280

Ildephonso, Conde de, a tale of the Spanish Revolution, 48

Imprisonment, laws of the Old Scottish Parliament relative to, 664.

India, opening of trade to, 254

Instruction of the poor, laws of the Old Scottish Parliament relative to, 664

Janin, M. Jules, Baron Billings' letter to him, 807

Insolvent debtors, laws as to those of the old Scottish Parliament, 666

Ireland, 747—Disappointment in the effects of the Catholic Relief Bill, 747—Ireland always most turbulent when most kindly ruled, ib.—Prospers under a rigorous Government, 748—Table showing Exports and Imports into Ireland from 1786 to 1831, ib.—Table showing shipping of Ireland from 1801 to 1831, ib.—Exports of sheep, oxen, &c. from 1801 to 1825, 749—Table of spirits, tobacco, &c. consumed in Ireland from 1790 to 1832, ib.—Leniency of Government to Ireland in not exacting direct taxes during first half of the period since the Union, 750 — Irish disaffection rendered the income tax necessary, ib.—Comparison betwixt the cultivated and uncultivated land of Scotland and Ireland, note, ib.—Grants for charities in Ireland, 751—Irish poor supported by England and Scotland, 752—Great attention to Irish affairs in Parliament, 753—Irish popular party have never suggested any thing for improvement of the country, 754—Decline of Irish imports, increase of crime, &c. since passing of Reform Bill, 755—Crime diminished by Coercion Bill, 757—Late improvement in the incomes and style of living of Irish priests, 759—Crimes owing much to the countenance given to agitation by the priests, 760

Italy, Austrian government of, Count Pozzo's work reviewed, 530—Elementary schools established in Italy by Austria, 535

Law, criminal law, as settled by the Old Scottish Parliament, 664

Levant, Whig diplomacy there, 516

Littleton, Mr, allusions to his communications with O'Connell, 248

Lochleven, Bride of, a poem, by Delta, 767

Melbourne, Lord, dissolution of his ministry alluded to in Noctes Ambrosianæ, 854.

Memoirs of M. de Chateaubriand, 802—Vide Chateaubriand.

Mennechet, M. Ed., Chateaubriand's letter to him, 803.

Mess, Nights at, Chap. VI. 523—Chap. VII. 652

Midge, Cruise of the, Chap. V. 29—Chap. VI. 190—Chap. VII. 300—Chap. VIII. 471—Chap. IX. 642—Chap. X. Where is the Ballahoo, 812

Moses, a sacred drama, by Chateaubriand—noticed, 810

Mirabeau, Memoirs of, 458

My Good Old Aunt—a Sketch, by John Ramsay, 829
Napoleon, his opinion of Parliamentary Reform, 249
Nicholas, Cousin, Chap. IX. 97—Chap. X. 107—Chap. XI. 341—Chap. XII. 346—Chap. XIII. 493—Chap. XIV. 498—Chap. XV. 776—Chap. XVI. 783—Chap. XVII. 789
Nights at Mess, Chap. VI. 523—Chap. VII. 652—Chap. VIII. 740
Noctes Ambrosianæ, No. LXVI. 120—No. LXVII. 258—No. LXVIII. 573 No. LXIX. 831—Grey dinner, 846
Noctes of Athenæus, 431
Ochlenschlaeger, his Aladdin reviewed, 620
Old Scottish Parliament, 661
O'Sullivan, his speech, 764—Extract, showing the consequences of concession to the revolutionary party, 765—Present measures of Government characterised by him, 766
Padua, its University, 535
Poetry, Bride of Lochleven, by Delta, 767—English Boy, by Mrs Hemans, 65—A Churchyard Eclogue, by Thos. Aird, 615—Sonnets, devotional and memorial, by Mrs Hemans, 799—My Good Old Aunt, a Sketch, 829
Poland, what has been done for it by the Whigs and revolutionists, 520
Poor Laws in Scotland, as settled by old Scottish Parliament, 663
Poor Roll in Scotland, 665
Portugal, recent conduct of this country towards it, 513
Press, influence of the, 373—Corruption of the press, ib.—Means of buttering its influence on public affairs and opinion, 376—Idea of a press maintained by government, 380—Press, democratic, only from self-interest, 381
Priests, Irish, their influence in exacting money from the people, 758
Public prosecutor in Scotland, 668
Pyrenees, the Water Drinker in the, 599
Radical Rump, 82—Second stage of Revolution, ib.—Reflections on the resignation of Mr Stanley, Sir James Graham, 84—Admonitions to the conservative party at this crisis, 86—Remarks on the commission on the Irish Church, 90—Commendation of the conduct of House of Peers since Reform Bill passed, 95
Ramsay, John, My Good Old Aunt, a Sketch, by him, 829
Real property, law of, in Scotland, 667
Reform Parliament, character of, 673—Diminished ability of its debates, 674—Politics require long study, 675—Uses of the close burghs, 677—Increase of the duties of committees, ib.—Vacillations of the sections of a Reformed Parliament, 679
Registration of deeds, as established by old Scottish Parliament, 667
Russia, additions made to its power, by the conduct of our present rulers, 318
Sarrans le Jeune, his counter-revolution of 1830 reviewed, 209
Schools, elementary, established in Italy by Austria, 535
Scottish, Old, Parliament, Tithes well adjusted by it, 663—poor laws, ib.—Laws relative to imprisonment, 664—Instruction of the poor, ib.—Criminal law, ib.—Prisoners for felony entitled to plead by counsel, 665—Poors' Roll, ib.—Banking, ib.—Insolvent debtors, 666—Bankruptcy, ib.—Protection to tenants against landlords, ib.—Registration of deeds, 667—Law of real property, ib.—Sheriff courts, 668—Public prosecutor, ib.—Legal attachment of property, 669—Extraordinary wisdom of its ancient legislation, 672
Sheriff Courts in Scotland, 668
Siddons, Mrs, Campbell's life of, reviewed, Part I. 149—Part II. 355—Comparison betwixt her and Mrs Jameson's character of Macbeth, 364
Sonnets, devotional and memorial, by Mrs Hemans, 799
Spain, recent conduct of this country towards it, 514
Spanish Revolution, tale of the, Part II. 48
Spenser, Part II. The Fairy Queen reviewed, 408—Part III. Legend of the Red Cross Knight—Part IV. 715
St James's Chronicle and Standard newspapers, their character, 388
St Peter's Island, Newfoundland, 27
Tithes in Scotland, well adjusted by the ancient Parliament, 663
Tytler, his History of Scotland, 673
Water Drinker in the Pyrenees, 598
Washington, comparison betwixt him and Bonaparte, by Chateaubriand, 809
Warton, Thomas, 412

Printed by Ballantyne and Company, Paul's Work, Edinburgh.